Maier leads a project to develop car surfaces requiring no cleaning

26/04/2010

Seven companies and research centres from four different countries are participating in the project, which has been underway since 2009. Its results are expected to later be applicable to other fields such as energy, biomedicine, textiles or the electrical/electronics sector.