Maier obtains UNE166002 certification

03/04/2009

The audit conducted by AENOR was performed in two phases and yielded a brilliant result, both due to the absence of non-compliances, and the list of strengths detected in our system, such as the Project management system, technological surveillance, market research, intellectual property, innovation finance and creativity systems amongst others. This innovative national standard, soon to be European, positions Maier as the first business R&D unit to have obtained it. In addition to the recognition this gives Maier´s perfectly developed and matured system of managing innovation, is the culmination of the 1st Maier Technology Plan, which constitutes a great legacy for future technological plans, and their responsibility for their constant improvement.